

My dear people

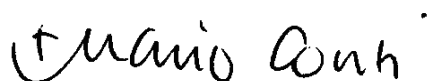

Today is Caring Sunday in the Archdiocese of Glasgow. Today, we think about and pray for those in need in our own local communities. It is the time we take action and give support to our own Archdiocesan charity, The St Nicholas Care Fund.

When Cardinal Winning established this fund in 1992 he memorably said that he wanted it to “do for people at home what SCIAF did for those overseas.” Since then your donations have allowed the Fund to distribute over £1.4 million in grants to around 500 groups throughout the West of Scotland. These grants have supported locally-based projects in addressing the needs of people in their areas.

From the previous reader you have heard stories of people whose lives the Fund has touched. These stories outline the work of the Fund and show exactly where your money has gone.

This Advent, please be generous again in supporting the Fund. Your donations allow us to make a real difference to the lives of some of the most needy and vulnerable members of our community.

With every blessing
